

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Preface	ix
Editorial Conventions	xi
Introduction: Tokugawa Religious Orthopraxy and the Phenomenon of Domain Shinto Bernhard Scheid	1
Part One Tokugawa Orthopraxy
1 Anti-Christian Temple Certification (terauke) in Early Modern Japan: Establishment, Practice, and Challenges Nam-lin Hur	21
2 Ieyasu's Posthumous Title and the Tokugawa Discourse on "Divine Country" Sonehara Satoshi	33
Part Two Unwanted Religious Groups
3 Anti-Christian Measures in Nagasaki During the Early Edo Period (1614–44) Carla Tronu	47
4 When the Lotus Went Underground: The Nichiren Buddhist Fujufuse Movement and Its Early Modern Persecution Jacqueline I. Stone	61
5 "Deviant Practices" and "Strange Acts": Late Tokugawa Judicial Perspectives on Heteropraxy Kate Wildman Nakai	75
Part Three Intellectual Challenges
6 Shinto as a Quasi-Confucian Ideology Inoue Tomokatsu	91
7 Buddhist-Confucian Polemics and the Position of Shinto W. J. Boot	103
8 Ikeda Mitsumasa and Confucian Ritual James McMullen	117
9 Calendars and Graves: Shibukawa Harumi's Criticism of Hoshina Masayuki and Yamazaki Ansai Hayashi Makoto	133

Part Four Institutional Challenges

10	Shinto in the 1660s and 1670s: The Shrine Clauses of 1665 as an Expression of Domain Shinto	Mark Teeuwen	151
11	Domain Shinto and shintō-uke in Okayama-han	Stefan Köck	163
12	“ Kami is kami , Buddha is Buddha”: Religious Policies in Mito Domain in the Later Seventeenth Century	Brigitte Pickl-Kolaczia	177
13	Shinto Priests and the Yoshida in Izumi Province	Yannick Bardy	191
14	Competing Claims for the Faith and Affiliation of Shrine Priests: The Shirakawa, Yoshida, and Hirata Atsutane	Anne Walthall	203
	Notes		217
	References		247
	List of Contributors		267
	Index		269