

CONTENTS

|   |                                                                                                                             |    |
|---|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 1 | Seshu nu per ānkh: The Ancient Kemetian Genesis of Digital Communication                                      | 1  |
|   | Abdul Karim Bangura                                                                                                         |    |
| 2 | Digital Communications: Colonization or Rationalization?                                                             | 23 |
|   | Chuka Onwumechili and Shamilla Amulega                                                                                      |    |
| 3 | Digital Communication in Africa at Crossroads: From Physical Exploitation in the Past to Virtual Dominance Now       | 41 |
|   | M'Bawine Atintande                                                                                                          |    |
| 4 | Africa at Development Policy and Practice Crossroads in the Digital Era: Navigating Decolonization and Glocalization | 71 |
|   | Bala A. Musa                                                                                                                |    |
| 5 | Pax-Africana Versus Western Digi-Culturalism: An Ethnomethodological Study of Selected Mobile African Apps           | 93 |
|   | Kehbuma Langmia                                                                                                             |    |

|          |                                                                                                                                               |            |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 6 | Africans and Digital Communication at Crossroads:Rethinking Existing Decolonial Paradigms                                         | 107 |
|          | Agnes Lucy Lando                                                                                                                              |            |
| 7 | African Communication Paradigms Between Yesterdayand Tomorrow: Preserving and Enhancing Africanityin the Digital Age         | 131 |
|          | Mohamed Saliou Camara                                                                                                                         |            |
| 8 | Digital Communication Tools in the Classroom as aDecolonial Solution: Pedagogical Experiments fromAshesi University in Ghana | 157 |
|          | Kajsa Hallberg Adu                                                                                                                            |            |
|          | Index                                                                                                                                  | 177 |