2.1	The Dogmatic Response	25
2.2	Mathematical Ideas qua Epistemic Exemplars: Problems for the Dogmatic Interpretation	30
2.3	Attaining the Idea of God: The Cartesian Response	34
2.3.1	Textual Evidence for the Cartesian Interpretation	37
2.4	The Cartesio-Dogmatic Response	39
2.5	Objections and Replies	42
	References	48
3	Realism and Antirealism About Mathematical Entities	51
3.1	Figures as Beings of Reason	52
3.1.1	Figures as (Imaginative) Universals	54
3.1.2	Figures as a Form of Measure	58
3.1.3	Figures as Non-beings	61
3.1.4	Genetically Conceived Figures	63
3.2	Reductio ad Acosmism: The Case Against Antirealism	66

3.3	Figure and Finite Bodies: The Case for Realism	70
3.3.1	Descartes and the Ontological Status of Figures	70
3.3.2	Spinoza's Theory of Corporeal Individuals and Figure	73
3.3.3	What Are Figures in Spinoza?	78
3.4	True Ideas of Number?	82
	References	84
4	Reason and Imagination in Spinozan Science	87
4.1	Reason and Spinozan Science	89
4.1.1	Common Notions as Foundations of Reason and Laws of Nature	91
4.2	Imagination in Spinozan Science and Issues of Adequacy	98
4.2.1	From the Historia Naturae to Common Notions	100
4.2.2	Descending to Particulars	106
4.3	Peculiar Common Notions	111
	References	121
5	Geometry and Spinozan Science	123
5.1	Spinoza on the Geometry of Optical Lenses	125
5.2	Response to an (other) Objection from Letter 12	136
5.2.1	The Commensurability Response	142
5.3	Letters 80–83 and the Incompleteness of Spinozan Science	144
	References	149
6	Spinoza's Notions of Essence	153
6.1	Common Essence, Species Essence, and Individual Essence	154
6.2	Formal Essence, Actual Essence, and Existence	163
6.2.1	Formal Essences and Existence	164
6.2.2	Actual Essences and Existence	170
6.2.3	E2p8 Reconsidered	175
	References	179
7	Intuitive Knowledge: The Perfection of Reason	181
7.1	Preliminary Analysis of the Principal Texts	184
7.2	The Content of Intuitive Knowledge: The Common Essence Interpretation	191

7.3	Beyond the Common Essence Interpretation	197
7.3.1	A Geometrical Alternative to the Fourth Proportional Example: The Isoperimetric Problem	198
7.3.2	The Isoperimetric Example and Spinoza's Definition of Intuitive Knowledge	201
7.4	The Difference Between Reason and Intuitive Knowledge: A Method Interpretation	208
7.4.1	Can Conatus Save the Content Interpretation?	213
7.5	Amor Dei Intellectualis and the Supremacy of Intuitive Knowledge	217
7.6	Intuitive Knowledge in Spinozan Science	224
	References	224
8	Conclusion	227
8.1	Spinoza's Epistemic Outlook	228
8.2	Spinoza Vis-à-Vis Descartes (and Galileo)	232
