

PHILOSOPHY OF MIND

An Introduction

Tim Bayne

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	xii
List of figures	xiii
Preface: Just Keep Swimming	xiv

Introduction: a map of the mind	1
--	---

1 Marks of the mental	6
------------------------------	---

1.1	Aspects of mentality	6
1.2	The privacy of the mental	8
	Box: Brain-reading?	9
	Box: The personal/subpersonal distinction	10
1.3	Intentionality	11
	Box: The propositional attitudes	13
1.4	Consciousness	16
	Box: Qualia	17
1.5	Folk psychology	18
	Box: Folk psychology or folk psychologies?	19
1.6	Conclusion	20
	Further reading	22
	Study questions	22

2 Physicalism	24
----------------------	----

2.1	Motivating physicalism	25
2.2	Hempel's dilemma	26
	Box: Mentality in the foundations?	27
2.3	Supervenience, emergence, and intelligibility	28
	Box: Two kinds of possibility	29
2.4	A priori and a posteriori physicalism	31
2.5	The prospects of physicalism	33
	Box: Ghosts and zombies	34
2.6	Conclusion	35
	Further reading	35
	Study questions	36

3 How to be a physicalist	38
3.1 Behaviourism	38
3.2 The mind-brain identity theory	41
Box: Anomalous monism and token identities	41
Box: Multiple realization	43
3.3 Functionalism	44
Box: Constructing an artificial mind	47
3.4 Eliminativism	47
Box: Eliminativism and incoherence	50
3.5 The role of science	51
3.6 Conclusion	53
Further reading	53
Study questions	54
4 Perception	56
4.1 Three accounts of perception	57
Box: Disjunctivism	60
Box: Virtual reality	62
4.2 Intentionalism and phenomenal character	62
Box: Perception and pain	64
4.3 Intentionalism: for and against	65
Box: Blurry vision	65
4.4 The admissible contents of perception	69
4.5 Unconscious perception?	71
4.6 Conclusion	73
Further reading	74
Study questions	75
5 Thought	77
5.1 The varieties of thought	78
Box: Alief: between thought and perception?	79
5.2 The language of thought hypothesis	81
Box: But does it have to be a language ?	84
5.3 Alternatives to the language of thought	84
Box: The scaffolding of thought	87
5.4 The Chinese room argument	88
5.5 The Turing test and the boundaries of thought	90
Box: Winning the imitation game?	91
5.6 Conclusion	94
Further reading	95
Study questions	96
6 Grounding intentionality	98
6.1 Getting situated	99
6.2 The tracking approach	101
Box: The normativity of content	103
6.3 The teleosemantic approach	104
Box: Swampman	107
6.4 The phenomenal approach	107
Box: The puzzle of cognitive phenomenology	110

6.5	The intentional stance	111
6.6	Conclusion	113
	Further reading	114
	Study questions	115
7	Externalism and the extended mind	117
7.1	Motivating content externalism	118
7.2	Responses to the doppelgänger arguments	120
7.3	Externalism extended	121
	Box: Border problems	122
7.4	The internalist fights back	123
7.5	Vehicle externalism and the extended mind	125
	Box: The extended conscious mind?	126
7.6	Conclusion	129
	Further reading	130
	Study questions	130
8	The metaphysics of consciousness	133
8.1	Bats, neuroscientists, and zombies	134
	Box: Mind the gaps	136
8.2	Type-A physicalism and the inscrutability premise	138
	Box: Mysterianism	141
8.3	Type-B physicalism and the bridging premise	142
	Box: Consciousness and a posteriori necessities	143
8.4	Illusionism	146
	Box: Chase, Sanborn, and the taste of coffee	147
8.5	Dualism and Russellian monism	148
	Box: Panprotopsychism?	149
8.6	Conclusion	150
	Further reading	151
	Study questions	152
9	Theories of consciousness	154
9.1	First-person methods and third-person methods	155
	Box: Phenomenal overflow?	157
9.2	Explanatory targets	160
	Box: Global states of consciousness	160
	Box: The neural correlates of consciousness	162
9.3	Monitoring theories versus first-order theories	163
9.4	Neural theories versus functional theories	167
	Box: Cortical dominance and cortical deference	168
9.5	Intentionalism	172
9.6	Conclusion	174
	Further reading	174
	Study questions	175
10	Mental causation	178
10.1	Motivating mental causation	179
10.2	The causal exclusion objection	180
	Box: Token identities (again)	183

10.3	Causal exclusion and non-reductive physicalism	184
10.4	Externalism and mental causation	187
10.5	Libet's challenge	190
	Box: What's it like to raise your hand?	192
10.6	Conclusion	193
	Further reading	194
	Study questions	194
11	Other minds	196
11.1	The psychology of mindreading	197
	Box: The theory-theory: little scientists, mental modules	199
11.2	The conceptual problem of other minds	201
	Box: The beetle in the box	202
11.3	The sceptical problem of other minds	203
	Box: Solipsism	204
	Box: Detecting consciousness in the 'vegetative state'	206
11.4	Other kinds of minds I: non-human animals	208
	Box: Plant mentality	209
11.5	Other kinds of minds II: artificial consciousness	212
	Box: Consciousness in cerebral organoids?	212
11.6	Conclusion	214
	Further reading	215
	Study questions	216
12	Self-knowledge	218
12.1	The scope and status of self-knowledge	218
	Box: Avowals and expressivism	221
12.2	The inner-sense account	221
	Box: Acquaintance	223
12.3	The inferentialist account	224
12.4	The deliberative account	226
	Box: Anscombe on agent's knowledge	227
12.5	Neo-Rylean approaches	228
	Box: Making sense of oneself	230
12.6	Conclusion	231
	Further reading	232
	Study questions	233
13	The self	234
13.1	Putting the self to work	235
	Box: Losing oneself	237
13.2	Dualism	238
13.3	Animalism	241
	Box: One organism, two selves?	242
13.4	The psychological approach	243
	Box: Who wants to live forever?	247
13.5	The self as an illusion	248
	Box: Doing without the self	250
13.6	Conclusion	250

Further reading	251
Study questions	252

Conclusion: the mind-body problem	255
--	-----

Glossary	258
Bibliography	263
Index	283