

Detlef Eckert

40 Years of European Digital Policies

Forgotten Lessons

 Springer

Contents

1	The Beginning	1
	The GSM Story	1
	ESPRIT: The First European Response to the IT Revolution	4
	Meanwhile in Japan	5
	The American Reaction	6
	The United Kingdom and the Alvey Programme	7
	La filière électronique	8
	The German Non-reaction	8
	ESPRIT 1	9
	ESPRIT II and Creating DG XIII, the Forerunner of DG Connect	10
	EUREKA	11
	ESPRIT Reloaded	12
	Language Technologies: Back to the Future	13
	Semiconductor Dispute Between the United States and Japan	14
	Liberalisation of Telecommunications	15
	The Green Paper	15
	The Power of the Commission	17
	Striking the Balance Between Liberalisation and Harmonisation	18
	A Brief History of ISDN	19
	RACE: The Vision of Integrated Broadband Communication	20
	RACE: An Unaccomplished Mission	21
	Broadcasting	21
	Culture versus Commerce	21
	HDTV: The Japanese Did It Again	23
	The End of the Beginning	25
	References	26

2	The Information Society	27
	The Delors White Paper on Growth, Competitiveness, and Employment	27
	Preparation	28
	Telematic Applications	29
	Bangemann Report: Europe and the Global Information Society	30
	Europe's Way to the Information Society	32
	G7 Conference: A Forgotten Highlight	33
	The American Information Superhighway	34
	Japan's NII Approach	35
	ARPANET	36
	The Internet	37
	The Internet Comes to Europe	39
	RIPE	40
	The World Wide Web	41
	References	42
3	Responding to the Internet Economy	43
	1998: Full Liberalisation of Telecommunications	43
	Data Protection	45
	Information Security: The Encryption Debate	47
	Email and Privacy	47
	e-commerce and Digital Signatures	48
	Electronic Signature Directive	50
	A Milestone Reached	51
	Copyright: The Two Faces of the Internet for Creators	51
	International Law is on the Side of Rightsholders	52
	Technology Fills Copyright with Life	54
	e-commerce	55
	Jurassic Park and Convergence	56
	Consolidation of the ICT Research Programmes	58
	Can We Promote the Information Society?	60
	The 1990s: A Foundational Decade	61
	Reference	61
4	The Lisbon Agenda	63
	Productivity Growth Matters	64
	The 2000 Lisbon European Council	65
	The UMTS Disaster	66
	eEurope 2002 Action Plan	67
	Achievements	68
	Local Loop Unbundling	69
	The 2002 ex ante Competition Framework for Electronic Communications	70
	The Cookie Directive	72

eEurope 2005	73
Information Security: The Story of ENISA	75
European Research Area	76
The Information Society Technology Programme	77
A View from Inside the Machine Room	78
References	79
5 Reform of the Reform Agenda	81
i2010	82
Convergence Reloaded: The Second Revision of the Television Without Frontiers Directive	82
Telecommunications: ‘More Europe’	84
Spectrum	84
A European Telecom Agency	85
Copyright	86
Net Neutrality: The First Attempt	87
FP7: More Money for ICT	88
Let’s Deviate for a Moment	88
FP7’s Confusing Terminology	89
Joint Technology Initiatives	90
FET Flagships	91
Lessons	92
Losing the Competitive Edge	93
The iPhone	93
Cloud Computing	94
Social Media	95
The Political Narrative Became Decoupled from Market Realities	96
Reference	96
6 A Digital Agenda	97
The Making of the Digital Agenda	98
Cross-border Authentication	98
How Do You Define Success?	102
Money for Broadband	104
Could Regulation Help?	105
Net Neutrality	107
4G Was a Game Changer	108
Call Me by My Name: Horizon 2020	110
ICT in Horizon 2020	110
The Illusion of a Future Internet	111
A Final Point on Horizon 2020	113
The Digital Agenda Had a Transitional Effect	113

7	A Digital Single Market	115
	Ambitions	116
	Practical Improvements	116
	More than e-commerce	117
	GDPR: A Model for the World?	118
	What Are the Main Differences Compared with the 1995 Directive?	119
	The Social Media Reality	121
	The Copyright Reform	121
	The Reform Proposal	122
	Unexpected Implications for AI	124
	Outlook	125
	Audio-Visual Regulation Remains Complex	126
	Provisions	126
	The Media Reality	127
	Electronic Communications: The Code	128
	How Do We Bolster Investment in Fibre Deployment?	129
	Striving for More Integration	130
	Outlook	131
	DSM Achievements	131
	References	132
8	The Age of Artificial Intelligence	133
	The AI Act	134
	Fairness and Accuracy	137
	International Developments	138
	Demystifying AI	140
	Employment and Productivity	141
	Burning Questions for Europe	143
	References	145
9	Seeking Digital Sovereignty	147
	If You Can't Beat Them, Regulate Them	147
	The Open Method for Coordination Revisited	149
	Money for the Digital Decade	150
	FP9: Horizon Europe	150
	The Digital Europe Programme	151
	The Connecting Europe Facility	152
	Cybersecurity	153
	Better Cybersecurity Processes	154
	Security Standards	155
	Aiming at More Secure Devices	156
	Where Is It Going?	157
	Encryption Debate Reloaded	158
	The Global Semiconductor Race	159

	The Chips Act	160
	The Story of ARM	161
	Taming Big Tech	163
	Content Moderation versus Free Speech	164
	Thoughts	167
	References	168
10	Gigabit Connectivity	169
	The Ambitions of the European Telecom Operators	170
	Is It Time for a Regulatory Revolution?	172
	Gigabit Recommendation	173
	Gigabit Infrastructure Act	174
	The Future of Mobile Communications	175
	The 5G Vision	176
	EU 5G Action Plan	177
	Towards 6G	178
	Remarks	179
	Reference	180
11	Epilogue: Aspirations and Reality	181
	References	187