

Rabia Latif Khan

From the Diaspora to the Homeland

History, Memory and Identity among Hazaras in England

DE GRUYTER

Contents

Preface — VII

Introduction — 1

- Context of this study — 4
- Who constitutes a diaspora? — 7
- “Hazara” as a distinct ethnic group — 9
- Methodology — 13
- Structure of the book — 18

Chapter 1

Hazara history — 22

- 1.1 An introduction to the Hazaras — 22
- 1.2 Hazaras in Afghanistan — 24
- 1.3 Hazaras in Iran — 30
- 1.4 Hazaras in Pakistan — 33
- 1.5 The Hazara diaspora in the UK — 36
- 1.6 15 August 2021 — 41
- 1.7 Conclusion — 46

Chapter 2

Hazara migration — 48

- 2.1 Governance in Afghanistan (since the 1970s) — 48
- 2.2 Hazara migration to Britain (1990s to the present) — 52
- 2.3 The politicisation of the “Afghan migrant” (2015 onwards) — 59
- 2.4 Conclusion — 65

Chapter 3

Master narratives and memory — 67

- 3.1 Master narratives — 67
- 3.2 Individualised narratives — 69
- 3.3 On marginality and overcoming — 73
- 3.4 Memory — 78
- 3.5 Conclusion — 81

Chapter 4

Contemporary Hazara historiography — 83

- 4.1 Narrative and history — 85

- 4.2 Hazara historiography — 88
- 4.3 Hazara history writing online — 92
- 4.4 Conclusion — 100

Chapter 5

Hazara ethnic consciousness — 102

- 5.1 Identifying with marginality and overcoming — 103
- 5.2 On experience, narrative and memory — 107
- 5.3 Abdul Ali Mazari and Hazara consciousness — 110
- 5.4 Conclusion — 116

Chapter 6

The place of religion — 119

- 6.1 On the Shia orientation of Hazaras — 119
- 6.2 Explicit discourses on religion — 125
- 6.3 Secularism in contemporary Hazara life — 131
- 6.4 Conclusion — 136

Chapter 7

“Hazara” as a political identity — 139

- 7.1 Nascent liberalism — 139
- 7.2 Hazara political ideologies in the twentieth century — 141
- 7.3 Hazara political discourses since 2001 — 144
- 7.4 The post-2001 liberal framing of Hazaras — 149
- 7.5 Liberalism as a Hazara ethos — 152
- 7.6 The post-2021 scenario — 153
- 7.7 Conclusion — 157

Chapter 8

Political mobilisation and Hazara transnationalism — 159

- 8.1 A burgeoning political consciousness — 159
- 8.2 Quetta events — 162
- 8.3 Afghanistan events — 169
- 8.4 Diasporic events — 173
- 8.5 Conclusion — 179

References — 180

Index — 194