

Kevin Dwyer

The Perils and Promise of Moroccan Cinema

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

1	Introduction: An Anthropologist Explores Moroccan Cinema	1
Part I	Moroccan Cinema Into the Twenty-First Century	9
2	Moroccan Cinema in Its Regional Context (2000)	11
3	Moroccan Cinema: Probing a Paradox (2000–2006)	31
Part II	Conversations with Filmmakers	67
4	Abdelkader Lagtaa: Challenging Accepted Views (1999–2002)	73
5	The “Neo-Real,” the Social, and the Symbolic in the Films of M. A. Tazi (1998–2000)	93
6	One Decade, Two Comedies, Two Filmmakers (M.A. Tazi, Hakim Noury) (2004–2007)	119

Part III Themes and Issues in this Century's First Decade	139
7 Moroccan Cinema, the Cultural Exception, and Cultural Diversity (2006–2007)	141
8 Life History in Anthropology and Moroccan Cinema (2005–2010)	169
9 Freedom of Expression in Moroccan Cinema and the Press (2009)	193
Part IV The State of Play Two Decades In	221
10 Family Resemblance: An Anthropologist Looks at Moroccan Documentary (2020)	223
11 Taking Stock of the Paradox (2008–2021)	271
12 Conclusion: Whither the Moroccan Filmmaker's Odyssey? (2024)	317
Correction to: The Perils and Promise of Moroccan Cinema	C1
Appendix	343
Index	389