

Mônica Raisa Schpun

Aracy de Carvalho and Jewish Rescue from 1930s Germany

A Righteous Brazilian

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

Introduction	1
Bibliography	17
From Brazil to Germany: Aracy de Carvalho	19
Emigration, Rupture, Reconstruction	19
An Ordinary São Paulo Middle-Class Woman	20
High Seas: Germany on the Horizon	21
End Point: The Challenge of Divorce	22
German-Brazilian Networks: Hamburg, the Welcoming, and a Job at the Consulate	25
Arriving in Germany in 1934: Distance or Silence?	28
The Hardships of Settling In	34
Out of Sync	37
Material Stability	42
Romance	47
A Subordinate Position at the Center of Tensions	49
Brazilian Hospitality: Rules Revised	49
State Anti-Semitism?	53
Memorandum n. 1127	55
Case by Case	59
Medicine Dropper	64
An Opening	65

Flow Management: Memorandums That Were Sometimes Respected	67
1937–1938: Persecutions Worsen, as Seen from Hamburg	71
Kristallnacht	77
Emigration/Immigration: What Brazil Had to Offer	80
Bibliography	83
From Germany to Brazil (1938): Margarethe Levy	87
Women's Freedom Among the German Jewish Elite	87
Memories of a Privileged Childhood	87
Married Life	90
Aracy: The Freedom of an Immigrant Woman	96
Nazis and Divorce	98
Margarethe: Refusing Motherhood	102
Close, But Different	107
Fleeing Germany: Women United in Risk-Taking	109
Exile and Family Diaspora	109
Preparations	111
Two Friends	116
Beauty and Its Racial Determinants	119
Body Versus Text	121
Emergency Choices	123
Visas	129
Protection	132
Property: Expropriation and Negotiation	134
Crossings	138
The "Hamburg-Brazil" Link	142
Karl Franken and Max Calmann: Two Interrupted Careers in Commerce	142
The Katz and Marcus Families: Between Expropriation and Anti-Semitic Violence	151
Grete Callmann and Inge Heilborn: Women at the Outposts	159
Albert and Ilka Feis: A Fortune Under Close Surveillance	163
Hans Hochfeld and Horst Brauer: Two Young Friends, Single and Needy	166
Bibliography	173

Dropping Anchor in Brazil: Margarethe Levy	175
Stages of an Aided Transition	175
First Impressions	175
Brazil: Another Understanding of Race	178
São Paulo in the 1930s: A Welcoming City	184
Urban Itineraries and Flux in the "Harlequin" City	191
A "Harlequin" City	191
Tropical Judaism	197
A Community and Its Territory	198
Old Residents and Newcomers	200
Refugees and Jewish Organizations	202
Settling in and Moving up (1940s–1950s)	208
Migratory Regularization: A Path of Struggle	208
The Urgency of Earning a Living and Gaining Professional
Integration	219
Bibliography	236
 Return to the Homeland (1942–1982): Aracy de Carvalho	239
First Stop São Paulo	239
The War in Germany and Aracy's Homecoming (1939–1942)	239
Severed Ties: Jewish Families in the Eye of the Storm	245
Aracy: Getting Resettled	250
Aracy and Margarethe: Friendship Rekindled, Lives
Transformed	252
Convergence	255
German Reparation: Settling the Accounts of History and
Memory	259
Compensation: Indemnification Laws (1953, 1957)	259
Recalculating the Past	261
Collective Trauma, Hankering for Revenge	274
Margarethe Levy's Desperate Schemes	277
Aracy de Carvalho, "Righteous among the Nations"	286
Inventing the "Righteous"	286
"Righteous" Brazilians: A Contribution to the Debate on
Jewish Integration	289
Launching Aracy's Nomination	291
As a Case Unfolds, Memories Are Reconstructed	293
Crowning Glory (1982–1984)	300

The Fearless Gestures of an Ordinary Woman	301
Finale	304
Bibliography	313
Conclusions	315
Bibliography	322
Sources	323
Index	327