

CROSS-DRESSING IN THE MIDDLE AGES

Marina Montesano

CONTENTS

|                                                                                                           |           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Lists of figure                                                                                    | ix |
| Introduction                                                                                              | 1         |
| 1 “The woman shall not wear that which pertains unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman’s garment” | 14        |
| A scriptural passage in search of exegesis                                                         | 14        |
| Inversions in the Antiquity                                                                        | 22        |
| Metamorphoses                                                                                      | 28        |
| “Facta sum masculus” – The case of Perpetua                                                        | 33        |
| 2 Transvestite saints                                                                                     | 43        |
| Women and the monastic world                                                                       | 43        |
| Marina and the others                                                                              | 51        |
| The legend travels westwards                                                                       | 61        |
| A Cistercian story: Hildegund of Schönau                                                           | 63        |
| “Make the male and the female one and the same”                                                    | 67        |
| 3 Discussing masculinities                                                                                | 76        |
| Clerics versus knights                                                                             | 76        |
| Celibacy and marriage                                                                              | 80        |
| Haircuts and mutilations                                                                           | 84        |
| Pope Joan                                                                                          | 93        |

|   |                                                                      |     |
|---|----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 4 | Female cross-dressers in chivalric literature                        | 103 |
|   | "Unsex me here" 103                                           |     |
|   | Strategic disguises 110                                       |     |
|   | Growing up as men being women 117                             |     |
|   | "Dieu lui envoya toute nature de home" 129                    |     |
| 5 | Male cross-dressers: The carnivalesque                               | 143 |
|   | The travesty 143                                              |     |
|   | Adventures in drag 148                                        |     |
|   | At the tournament 153                                         |     |
| 6 | Chevaleresses, female warriors, and other fantastic creatures | 162 |
|   | Women on top 162                                              |     |
|   | Cross-dressing in late chivalric literature 171               |     |
|   | Short stories from Italy 177                                  |     |
|   | Renaissance warrior women 181                                 |     |
| 7 | Cross-dressers on trial                                              | 191 |
|   | The "unnatural vice" 191                                      |     |
|   | Ronchaia 194                                                  |     |
|   | Rykener 198                                                   |     |
|   | Hetzeldorfer 203                                              |     |
|   | Cross-gendering dresses 206                                   |     |
| 8 | Joan of Arc                                                          | 215 |
|   | The historical framework 215                                  |     |
|   | The first trial 219                                           |     |
|   | The second trial 231                                          |     |
|   | Epilogue                                                             | 245 |
|   | Selected Readings                                             | 251 |
|   | Index                                                         | 255 |