

Erwin van Veen
Editor

The Future of the Occupation of the Palestinian Territories after Gaza

Scenarios, Stakeholders and 'Solutions'

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

|                                            |                                                          |            |
|--------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 1                                   | Who Sows the Wind Will Reap the Storm             | 1   |
|                                            | Erwin van Veen                                           |            |
| 2                                   | Scenarios for the Israeli Occupation of Palestine | 19  |
|                                            | Erwin van Veen                                           |            |
| Part I Direct Conflict Stakeholders |                                                          |            |
| 3                                   | Hamas Walking the Path of Thorns                  | 43  |
|                                            | Abdalhadi Alijla                                         |            |
| 4                                   | The Palestinian Authority Watches Gaza Burn       | 57  |
|                                            | Mouin Rabbani                                            |            |
| 5                                   | Israel: From Creeping to Decisive Annexation      | 71  |
|                                            | Gil Murciano                                             |            |
| 6                                   | America's Enabling of Occupation                  | 87  |
|                                            | Brian Katulis                                            |            |
| Part II Neighbors                   |                                                          |            |
| 7                                   | Hezbollah: Shaken to the Core                     | 101 |
|                                            | Joseph Daher                                             |            |
| 8                                   | Egypt as Israel's New Ally                        | 115 |
|                                            | Maged Mandour                                            |            |

|                                 |                                                      |            |
|---------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|------------|
| 9                        | Jordan Between a Rock and a Hard Place        | 129 |
|                                 | Hasan M. Jaber                                       |            |
| Part III Regional Powers |                                                      |            |
| 10                       | Enduring Resistance from Tehran               | 147 |
|                                 | Hamidreza Azizi                                      |            |
| 11                       | The Rocky Road of Israeli-Saudi Normalization | 163 |
|                                 | Paul Aarts                                           |            |
| 12                       | Let's Talk About Peace                        | 179 |
|                                 | Omar Dweik and Erwin van Veen                        |            |
|                                 | Index                                         | 191 |