

Michael R. Griffiths

The Death of the Author
and Anticolonial Thought

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

1	The Deaths of the Author	1
	Before the Death of the Author	5
	The Death of the Author	7
	After the Death of the Author	12
	The Death of the Author and Anticolonial Thought	18
2	“With the Intention of Opening Up the Future”: Decolonial Authorship Before Barthes’ Essay	27
3	The Ghost of the Writer: Édouard Glissant’s Poetics of the Whole-World	39
	Poetic Intention after the “Death of the Author”	44
	Opacity, the Unsayable, and the Vow of the Other	50
4	An Appetite to Begin: Intention and the Political in the Work of Edward Said	67
	Two Visions in (and Around) Beginnings	72
	The Politics of World and Text	79
	Empire and Intention	84
5	On Writing, Storytelling, Community	93
	Index	105