

Margaret Betz

Modes of Protest And Resistance

Strange Change in Morals Political palgrave

macmillan

CONTENTS

1	Nonviolent Gadflies	1
	The Philosophy of Nonviolent Action	3
	What Does It Mean to Call Nonviolence “Effective”?	14
	The Politics of Respectability	20
	Laughivism	31
2	“The Last Shall Be First and the First Shall Be Last”:
	Resistance Violence	41
	Hannah Arendt on Political Violence	51
	Philosophies of Resistance	59
	Defining Resistance Violence	67
	Political Vulnerability	68
	Resistance Violence as Reasonable	83
	The Question of Self-Defense	94
	Scholars Advocating for Uses of Violence	103
	Catharsis	108
	Conclusion	110
3	Says Who? Epistemic Injustice	113
	Philosophies of Epistemic Injustice	125
	Any Woman: Celia’s Story	136
	Epistemic Justice	147
	Conclusion	157

4	Till They Felt a Big Stick About Their Heads: The Epistemic Justice of John Brown's Resistance Violence	159
5	The Question Is Not About The Weapon, But the Spirit in Which You Use It—Henry David Thoreau	187
	Political Vulnerability and Modes of Violent Protest Today	187
	Politically Vulnerable People Today: Trans People and Migrants	188
	Trans People as Politically Vulnerable	189
	Migrants	195
	Violent Anti-abortion Activism	200
	Antifascist Activism: "On Behalf of Another"	205
	The January 6th Insurrection of the U.S. Capitol	215
	Property Damage, Looting, and the Kerner Commission	218
	Where to Go from Here: Humor, Honesty, and Hope	225
6	Epilogue	231
	Objections	231
	Bibliography	237
	Index	243